

DR. ANDY HARGREAVES

Massachusetts

Dr. Andy Hargreaves is the Thomas More Brennan Chair in Education in the Lynch School of Education at Boston College. Its mission is to promote social justice and connect theory and practice in education.

Andy Hargreaves grew up in a working class community in the small Lancashire textile and engineering town of Accrington in England. The youngest of three, Andy was the first in his extended family history to move on to higher education. Hargreaves taught primary school and completed his Ph.D. in Sociology at the University of Leeds in England. He then lectured in a number of English universities until in 1987 he moved to the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, where he co-founded and directed the International Centre for Educational Change.

Dr. Hargreaves has authored or edited more than 25 books on culture, change and leadership in education that are available in many languages. His book, Teaching in the Knowledge Society: Education in the Age of Insecurity, has received the Choice Outstanding Book Award from the American Libraries Association for Teaching and the American Educational Research Association Division B Outstanding Book Award. His most recent book is Sustainable Leadership, with Dean Fink.

Andy now lives close to Boston, Massachusetts, and frequently gives Keynotes and presentation at conferences throughout North America and Internationally.
