

DR. PATRICK RENIHAN

Saskatchewan

Dr. Patrick Renihan is a Professor in the Department of Educational Administration, University of Saskatchewan. He has experience as an education administrator and has conducted numerous research studies on school system planning and school improvement.

Dr. Renihan did his PhD on Organizational Paradigms and Analysis. He has been published in areas related to principalship, supervision, organizational theory, effective teaching, effective schools and Board/CEO self-assessment. His current professional focus is on Organizational Behaviour, Instructional Supervision and Staff Development and Administrative Roles. Dr. Renihan's research interests include the Principalship, Board/CEO Assessment and School Effectiveness.

He has been awarded the Saskatchewan Council on Educational Administrative Leadership Award for his contributions to education in the province. Dr. Renihan is a frequent speaker at educational conferences throughout Canada.