

ROSA AND ELIZABETH RUVALCABA

California

For Rosa and Elizabeth Ruvalcaba, technology is not a tool, but an environment. While high school students of education multi-media guru and Apple Distinguished Educator Marco Torres, the Ruvalcaba sisters were exposed to a media-rich environment. As young students, these two sisters were recognized locally, nationally, and internationally for their movie making and digital story telling skills, and amassed a portfolio many film school students would envy. Rosa has now graduated as a media studies major from the University of San Francisco, is in a Masters/Credential program, and has begun student teaching. Elizabeth is a 3rd year student at the University of California, Berkeley.